When you've done the hard work of marketing your listing and have succeeded in getting multiple showings, it makes sense to quickly gauge the reaction of showing agents and their buyers as soon as the showing is complete. ShowingTime's feedback tool makes it easy for showing agents to provide feedback on your listings.

How It Works

1 A feedback request is emailed to the showing agent one hour after the showing

2 Feedback reminders (up to 9; you determine the frequency and timing) are sent until a response is received

3 Once received, you review the feedback and publish it to your sellers

4 Sellers can review showing activity through My Home by ShowingTime

Professional Feedback Includes*

- It's hard to remember every showing. By including the listing photo and your photo on each showing requests, your property remains top of mind.
- You know what to ask showing agents. Solicit the most useful feedback with customizable questions for each listing.
- Analyze feedback quickly with a visual summary of listing feedback.

*Some features not available in all markets   10.2020